RedBuilt™ Technical Inside Sales; The gateway to a successful sales career.

RedBuilt™ is a leading supplier to the commercial construction industry across North America, with a portfolio of engineered wood products and solutions second to none. Our reputation for unparalleled service and support goes back over 60 years.

And we're growing.

We currently have an Inside Sales position open for a talented individual who wants to be part of this dynamic industry. Often this role is the precursor to the Technical Sales Representative role. If that is the path chosen – and until a territory is identified, the successful candidate will locate in one of our office locations (Boise, ID; Hillsboro, OR; Chino, CA; Delaware, OH). The Inside Sales role is positioned within our Bid Desk team and supports our Technical Sales Representatives as they develop long-term customers in the market. This team, anchored in both integrity and enthusiasm, makes long-lasting relationships in the local construction industry as you expand opportunities for RedBuilt™ to play an integral role in projects over the entire construction cycle:

- Generating project material take-offs and estimates
- Assisting the structural engineering field with RedBuilt™ product specification
- Problem-solving with the design and construction communities
- Preparing sold projects for hand-off to the Design team.

Our Inside sales associates are excellent communicators and can convey building concepts and ideas accurately. They love challenges and go to great lengths to care for our customers and fellow team members as they consistently utilize all available tools and technologies at their disposal. They are simultaneously self-motivated and team-oriented. Many have degrees in Construction Management, Engineering, or Architecture.

If this sounds like you, we'd love to hear from you! Email your resume to careers@redbuilt.com.
